

Name	Title	Department	Affiliation	COI	Chapter(s)	Contribution(s)	Biography	Accepting speaking and/or writing invitations
Benjamin Schnapp, MD	Assistant Professor	Emergency Medicine	University of Wisconsin	none	OB/Gyn	Questions	Dr. Schnapp graduated from The Mount Sinai Hospital Emergency Medicine residency program in New York City, where he completed a specialty track in medical education and served as chief resident. He completed his Medical Education Scholarship fellowship at Northwestern University in Chicago and is currently completing his Masters in Education with a focus on the Health Professions at the University of Cincinnati. Dr. Schnapp's interests include clinical teaching skills, the resident as teacher, and decision making.	Yes
Daniel Migliaccio, MD	Clinical Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill	none	OB/Gyn, Cutaneous Disorders, Environmental Disorders, HEENT	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	"Promoting the most up to date knowledge on Emergency Medicine topics". Daniel Migliaccio completed his residency in Emergency Medicine at Stanford University. While in residency, he obtained an Honors Certificate in Medical Education from the Clinical Teaching Scholars Honors Program. He also received an award for Outstanding Achievement in Ultrasound from Stanford University. During his career, Daniel has participated in numerous research projects in point of care ultrasound, medical education and wilderness medicine. His interests include medical education, point of care ultrasound, and austere medicine. He is currently a faculty in the Emergency Department at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and focuses on teaching evidence based emergency medicine to all of his learners.	Yes
Andrew Grock, MD	Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	affiliation	none.	Endocrine, Metabolic, and Nutritional Disorders	Questions	Dr. Grock earned a BS in microbiology immunology and molecular genetics from UCLA, attended medical school at the Keck School of Medicine at USC, and completed his emergency medicine residency training at Kings County/SUNY Downstate. During residency, he produced over 100 online educational pieces, created and still runs the ALIEM AIR Series, and completed mini-fellowships in wilderness medicine, critical care medicine, and education. He has completed ACEP Teaching Fellowship, has almost finished MERC, and completed a medical education fellowship as well. He now works at the West LA VA and has an academic affiliation with the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA.	Yes
Dr. Karen Serrano, MD	Clinical Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	University of North Carolina	None	Cardiovascular Disorders	Textbook	Dr. Serrano attended medical school at the University of Chicago and completed residency training in emergency medicine at the University of Wisconsin. She currently works as an attending physician at University of North Carolina emergency department and Hillsborough Hospital emergency department. She also serves as medical director of the Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) program, and as an emergency medicine consultant on the child maltreatment telemedicine outreach program.	Yes
Nicholas Kluesner, MD	Emergency Physician	Department of Emergency Medicine	UnityPoint Health - Des Moines	none	Miscellaneous Disorders	Textbook, Questions	Dr. Kluesner completed undergraduate studies at the University of Notre Dame majoring in biology and philosophy before graduating from medical school and residency at the University of Iowa. He works as a community emergency physician in a tertiary referral hospital in Des Moines, Iowa. He is also an adjunct clinical professor with the University of Iowa Department of Emergency Medicine and the Des Moines University Department of Behavioral Medicine, Medical Humanities and Bioethics. He sits on the ACEP Ethics Committee, the Iowa ACEP Board of Directors, and the Iowa Medical Society Law and Ethics Committee.	Yes
Molly K. Estes, MD	Assistant Professor, Associate Clerkship Director	Department of Emergency Medicine	Loma Linda University	None	Hematologic Disorders	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	Molly Estes completed her residency at the Stanford/Kaiser EM Program, and her fellowship in Medical Education also at Stanford. She currently works as academic faculty at Loma Linda University and is the Associate Medical Student Clerkship Director. She has a passion for teaching, and her current research involves curriculum design in medical student education.	Yes
Spencer Greene, MD, MS, FACEP, FACMT	Director of Medical Toxicology and Assistant Professor	Henry J.N. Taub Department of Emergency Medicine	Baylor College of Medicine	none	Toxicology	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	Spencer Greene, MD, MS, FACEP, FACMT is the Director of Medical Toxicology and an Assistant Professor in the Henry J.N. Taub Department of Emergency Medicine at Baylor College of Medicine. He directs the only medical toxicology service in Houston. Clinical interests include salicylates, anticonvulsant toxicity, physostigmine, alcohol withdrawal, and envenomations, and he consults on more than 100 bites and stings annually, including snakebites, spider bites, asp envenomations, and jellyfish stings. He serves as a consulting toxicologist for the Southeast Texas Poison Center and has directed the annual Houston Venom Conference since its creation in 2013. He was also the course director for the American College of Medical Toxicology's Natural Toxins Academy. Dr. Greene earned his BA in biology and psychology from Washington University in St. Louis and his MS in immunology from C.W Post, Long Island University. He received his MD from Albany Medical College. He completed his emergency medicine residency at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. After fulfilling an active duty military obligation with the U.S. Air Force, Dr. Greene completed his medical toxicology fellowship at Banner Good Samaritan Medical Center in Phoenix.	Yes

Emily Rose, MD	Assistant Professor of Clinical Emergency Medicine	Department of Emergency Medicine	Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California	none	Systemic Infectious Diseases	Textbook, Lecture	Dr. Rose is the Director for Pre-Health Undergraduate Studies and the Director of the Minor in Health Care Studies at Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California. A native South Dakotan, she trained in Emergency Medicine and was chief resident at Los Angeles County/ USC Medical Center and then pursued a Pediatric Emergency Medicine fellowship at Loma Linda University. She has been Emergency Medicine faculty at LA County/USC Medical Center since 2010 where she continues to care for both sick/injured children and adults. Dr. Rose is a prolific educator with numerous publications invited national presentations. Dr. Rose is passionate about innovative education and an advocate for high standards of professionalism in medicine. She has been awarded faculty of the year by both the emergency medicine residents and medical students, has received the LAC+USC Emergency Medicine Faculty Teaching Award and has been awarded the Honorable Mention Outstanding Speaker of the Year for the American College of Emergency Physician Scientific Assembly.	Yes
Sarah A. Stahmer MD FACEP	Clinical Associate Professor	Emergency Medicine	University of North Carolina	None	Cardiovascular Disorders	Lecture	Dr. Stahmer is an Clinical Associate Professor of Emergency Medicine at University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and the Director of Emergency Ultrasound. She was instrumental in the development of ultrasound in emergency medicine through the development of clinical practice guidelines, training of residents and creating the foundation for research by starting the SAEM US interest group. She was a program training director in EM for nearly 20 yrs and has been a member of the board of directors for CORD and SAEM.	Yes
Rebecca Higbee, MD	Emergency Medicine Physician	Emergency Medicine	US Acute Care Solutions	None	Toxicology, HEENT	Questions	Becky graduated from the University of Colorado School of Medicine, and obtained her emergency medicine training at the Stanford/Kaiser Emergency Medicine Residency. She is ABEM board certified and currently works full time in community emergency departments in the Denver Metro area. In her free time she enjoys climbing, running, gardening and backpacking.	No
William E Soares III, MD MS	Assistant Professor	Emergency Medicine	University of Massachusetts Medical Center - Baystate Campus	none	Abdominal Disorders	Textbook, Lecture	Bill Soares is an academic emergency physician and researcher with an interest in graduate medical education. He graduated from Harvard Medical School and completed residency training in emergency medicine at Alameda Health System/Highland Hospital in Oakland, California. After residency, he pursued a masters degree in Clinical and Translational Science at Tufts University in conjunction with a 2-year emergency medicine research fellowship at Baystate Medical Center. Currently, Bill lives with his wife, Judy, and 3 children in Amherst, MA.	No
M. Tyson Pillow, M.D., M. Ed.	Associate Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	Baylor College of Medicine	None	Endocrine, Metabolic, and Nutritional Disorders, Musculoskeletal Disorders	Lecture	Dr. M. Tyson Pillow completed his undergraduate training at Rice University, and his medical school training at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, TX. After 3 years of Emergency Medicine Residency training at the University of Chicago, he returned to Baylor as faculty in the Section of Emergency Medicine. He currently serves as the Residency Program Director and Vice Chair for Education for the Department of Emergency Medicine, and the Medical Director for Simulation and Standardized Patient Programs for Baylor College of Medicine. During this time, he also completed a Masters in Education program at the University of Houston.	Yes
Emily Perriello, PharmD	Emergency Medicine Clinical Pharmacist	Department of Pharmacy	Hartford Hospital	None	Miscellaneous Disorders	Textbook	Emily Perriello went to pharmacy school at the University of Connecticut. She went on to complete a PGY1 at Hartford Hospital, and then a PGY2 in emergency medicine at Duke University Hospital. She is currently an emergency medicine clinical pharmacist at Hartford Hospital in CT.	Yes
Michelle D. Lall, MD, MHS, FACEP	Associate Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	Emory University School of Medicine	none	Signs, Symptoms, and Presentations, Endocrine, Metabolic, and Nutritional Disorders	Textbook, Lecture	Dr. Lall, a board-certified emergency medicine physician, is an Associate Professor at Emory University. She has been faculty at Emory since 2013. She has also been an Assistant/Associate Residency Director for Emergency Medicine since that time. Prior to coming to Emory, Dr. Lall was an Assistant Professor at Wayne State University beginning in 2008. She was an Assistant Program Director at the Sinai-Grace/Wayne State University Emergency Medicine Residency Program and the medical student clerkship site director at Sinai-Grace/Wayne State University. Dr. Lall is a graduate of Wayne State University School of Medicine. She completed her residency and chief residency at Emory University. Dr. Lall is actively involved in the teaching and supervision of medical students and residents. Her passion is graduate medical education, education research and scholarship. Dr. Lall is also interested in resident and faculty wellness and well being and gender bias in medicine. She has presented nationally on these topics. She is currently the President of the Academy for Women in Academic Emergency Medicine. Her professional memberships include: American College of Emergency Physicians – where she is a fellow, Society for Academic Emergency Physicians, American Association of Women Emergency Physicians, and Georgia College of Emergency Physicians. She is also a member of the Delta Omega Honor Society.	Yes
Bruce Lo, MD, MBA, RDMS	Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	Eastern Virginia Medical School/Sentara Norfolk General Hospital	None	Thoracic Disorders	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	Dr. Bruce Lo is currently the medical director for Emergency Services at Sentara Norfolk General, a quaternary, Level 1 trauma center and the main teaching facility for Eastern Virginia Medical School. He also serves as the medical director for the Sentara Regional Transfer Center. He has served on a number of leadership roles across the Sentara health system including co-chair of the Sentara system stroke committee as well as the president of the medical staff for Sentara Norfolk General and Sentara Leigh Hospital and president of the Virginia College of Emergency Physicians. He is a professor of Emergency Medicine at Eastern Virginia Medical School and an assistant program director for the Emergency Medicine residency. He currently sits on the American College of Emergency Physicians clinical policy and academic affairs committee.	Yes

Andrew W Phillips, MD, MEd	Clinical Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill	None	Miscellaneous Disorders	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	I am a former junior high teacher now emergency physician and intensivist. I have been researching health professions education for over a decade and have built and several curricula. In addition to contributing to the Miscellaneous chapter, I am the editor-in-chief of EM Coach. I took on this project because I saw a need for evidence-driven, modern instructional methods for the written board review. Just because it's online doesn't mean it's modern, so we built this curriculum from the ground up using prior research and theory and are now producing our own research with regular innovations. I'm proud of EM Coach and hope it helps everyone both on the boards and in their daily practice.	Yes
Megan L Fix, MD	Associate Professor	Department of Surgery, Division of Emergency Medicine	University of Utah	none	Immunological Disorders	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	Dr. Fix is an Associate Professor at the University of Utah and her major focus is medical education. She serves as the Director of Education for Emergency Medicine and is actively involved in the School of Medicine. She is the course director for the 4th year Transition to Internship Course, is the Faculty Director of Mentoring and a Core Faculty member for Clinical Method Curriculum. Dr. Fix graduated from Stanford School of Medicine and the Harvard Affiliated Residency Program.	Yes
Jia Chang, MD	Clinical Instructor	Surgery and Perioperative Care	USACS/UT-Austin Dell Medical School	none	Cardiovascular Disorders	Questions	Medical School: Stanford School of Medicine Residency: Stanford Emergency Medicine	No
Patrick G. Meloy, MD, FACEP	Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	Emory University School of Medicine	none	OB/Gyn, Signs, Symptoms, and Presentations, Psychobehavioral Disorders, Cutaneous Disorders, Hematologic Disorders	Textbook, Questions	Dr. Patrick Meloy joined the Emory University School of Medicine faculty in 2013. He serves as Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine, and is currently practicing at Emory University Midtown Hospital and Grady Memorial Hospital. He earned his bachelor's degrees from the University of Wisconsin – Madison, and his MD from St. George's University School of Medicine. He successfully graduated from the Sinai-Grace Hospital/Wayne State University Emergency Medicine residency after serving as chief resident. He is currently a Fellow of the American College of Emergency Physician and was named "Teacher of the Year" twice of the Emergency Medicine program at Emory. He has authored several book chapters, and has published multiple clinical and research papers. He currently is the Site Director of the Emergency Medicine Residency at Emory University Hospital Midtown, Residency Core Faculty, and is coordinator of the Mock Oral Boards for the residency program. His interests include trauma care, infectious disease preparedness, pediatric emergency care and emergency medicine myths.	Yes
Julie Sayegh, MD, MAEd	Director of Simulation, Assistant Clinical Professor	Emergency Medicine	Desert Regional Medical Center	None	Endocrine, Metabolic, and Nutritional Disorders	Textbook	Dr Julie Sayegh is a Southern California native. Her undergraduate education was completed at UCLA, then she traveled to Chicago, IL where she completed medical school at Rush Medical College, and her residency training at Cook County Hospital. Dr Sayegh found her way back to California where she concurrently took on a fellowship program at the University of California Irvine, and completed a masters in Multimedia education. Her interests lie in medical simulation and education, mentorship and resident and medical student wellness.	Yes
Aaron Schott, MD	Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	University of North Carolina	none	Abdominal Disorders	Questions	Assistant Professor at the University of North Carolina	No
Natalie Badowski Wu M.D.	NA	Emergency Medicine	none	none	Nontraumatic Musculoskeletal Disorders	Textbook	Natalie Badowski Wu is an Emergency Physician trained at Stanford Medical School and at Stanford Hospital and Clinics with further fellowship training in Sports Medicine. She is board certified in both Emergency Medicine and Sports Medicine. She has an interest in musculoskeletal injuries, concussions, and ultra-endurance sports. For fun, she enjoys running, swimming, and biking and is currently training for ultramarathons	No
Robert McArthur, MD	Director of Academic Assistant and Assistant Professor	Henry J.N. Taub Department of Emergency Medicine	Baylor College of Medicine	None	Psychobehavioral Disorders	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	Robert McArthur, MD is the Director of Academic Assistance and an Assistant Professor in the Henry J.N. Taub Department of Emergency Medicine at Baylor College of Medicine. Dr. McArthur received his MD from Baylor College of Medicine in Houston Texas then underwent residency training at the Harvard Affiliated Emergency Medicine Residency at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston Massachusetts. Dr. McArthur practiced Emergency Medicine at St. Luke's Emergency Department in New Bedford Massachusetts, a high volume community hospital, for two years before returning to his native Texas and joining the faculty of the Henry J. N. Taub Department of Emergency Medicine at Baylor College of Medicine. Dr. McArthur is active in education of residents and medical students. His clinical interests include the Emergency Department evaluation and management of psycho-behavioral emergencies.	Yes
Charles Lei, MD	Assistant Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	Vanderbilt University Medical Center	None	Signs, Symptoms, and Presentations, Procedural Skills	Questions	Charles Lei, MD graduated from Harvard University with a degree in Biology and received his medical degree from Harvard Medical School. He completed his residency training at the Stanford/Kaiser Emergency Medicine Residency Program, where he served as Chief Resident. He then completed a fellowship in Emergency Medicine Simulation at Stanford. Dr. Lei currently serves as the Simulation Fellowship Director and Assistant Director of Undergraduate Medical Education in the Department of Emergency Medicine. His academic interests include simulation, resident and medical student education, curriculum development, and quality improvement.	Yes
Vivian Lei, MD, MEng	Assistant Clinical Professor	Department of Emergency Medicine	Vanderbilt University School of Medicine	none	Environmental Disorders, Neurological Disorders	Questions	Dr. Vivian Lei is currently a community emergency physician practicing at Sumner Regional Medical Center in Gallatin, Tennessee. She is also an Assistant Clinical Professor of Emergency Medicine at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine where she is involved in resident education. Dr. Lei graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a Bachelors in Mechanical Engineering and a Masters in Biomedical Engineering. She received her medical training at the Stanford School of Medicine and residency training at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. Her professional interests include design of affordable medical technologies, simulation, medical education, and global health.	No

Sundeep Bhat, MD, FAAEM, FACEP	Senior Physician, The Permanente Medical Group	Emergency Department, Kaiser Permanente Santa Clara Medical Center	Clinical Assistant Professor (Affiliated) of Emergency Medicine, Stanford University School of Medicine	none	Renal and Urogenital Disorders	Textbook	Sundeep Bhat, MD is an emergency physician practicing in Northern California. A graduate of Yale School of Medicine and the Stanford/Kaiser Emergency Medicine Residency Program, he now serves as Assistant Chief in his department. His academic interests include EM operations and administration, sepsis, medical education, and international medicine.	No
Rhonda Cadena, MD MS	Assistant Professor	Departments of Neurology, Neurosurgery, and Emergency Medicine	University of North Carolina	none	Neurological Disorders	Textbook, Lecture, Questions	Rhonda Cadena M.D., is a board certified Neurointensivist and Emergency Physician at the University of North Carolina Hospital in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. She is an Assistant Professor in the Departments of Neurology, Neurosurgery, and Emergency Medicine and is the fellowship director of the Neurocritical Care fellowship at UNC. Clinical Interests include: Neurocritical care, stroke, neurological emergencies, and education. Education/Training: MD, Southern Illinois University School of Medicine; Residency, Emergency Medicine University of Cincinnati; Fellowship, Neurocritical Care and Stroke, University of Cincinnati.	Yes